About

I am a “C Family” developer with more than 20 years, working in C/C++, C#, and Objective-C. I specialize in low-level coding, client/server applications, and even UI programs. I recently got into iOS programming and find it very fun and challenging, while opening up a completely new world of possibilities!

I am into high power rocketry, and digital video/audio. I reversed the Dolby Surround algorithm back in 1990/1991, and was constructing audio files on my Amiga that would address each of the surround speakers for demo's and such.

I have appeared on many TV shows and news clips involving High Power Rocketry (<http://www.tripoli.org>).
