About

I have been developing software since 1996, and have been developing for the web professionally since 2004.

I have been building expertise in web tech, data modeling, and advanced research into human-computer interaction. Recently, I have also begun to coach and mentor beginning and mid-career developers.

- I solve problems.

- I am a highly experienced, driven, and passionate developer with skills in software engineering, agile project/product management, and team management.
- I believe in life-long learning, the value of embracing challenges, and taking ownership
