About

I am a Software Development Manager at Orbus Software, producers of the market leading Enterprise Architecture tools: iServer and iServer 365.

At heart, I am a professional software developer with 30 years' experience in many software technologies. I am an enthusiastic advocate of agile and functional methodologies. I have worked solo, as a team member, and have led development teams.

I am passionate about both writing high quality, well tested, clean code and in teaching others the skills and techniques needed to do the same. In my view, some of the essential skills for a good developer to have are a clear understanding
