About

I am a big city person living in a tiny town that offers few distractions from my passion: Creating software that helps others be more productive, happy, and enhances their work or personal life.

I love books, history of any kind but a special fondness for computer and the history of cryptography, Lego, and listening to lectures on YouTube. I have a great kid, a fantastic company, and insomnia.

I am a life-long learner, builder, writer, tinkerer, engineer and project manager.
