About

I'm a technologist available for hire in the West of England.

At the moment I'm working with a rather large building society helping them figure out how to use Kubernetes at scale, with .NET Core applications and a bit of the ELK stack for good measure.

Previously I helped an insurance firm in London figure out how to deploy their code quickly and reliably into Azure without getting large numbers of people out of bed in the middle of the night.

Before this I was at Global Radio in Reading, having fun with AWS, and before that I was with Nokia / MixRadio in Bristol, optimising how music files are ingested and transcoded. And a long time ago, amongst other things, I was the Product
