About

I am a programmer and designer who loves playing with technology for a living and for fun. I am currently working on some iOS apps and loving the platform. I have a background in web application development including a keen interest in front-end technologies (I have recently discovered Compass and SCSS which I think are very neat).

In the past I have had worked creating financial modelling software, and worked on a large-scale banking sytstem. I maintain an recreational interest in mathematical modelling, machine learning and related fields.
